Fifty Dollars Reward.

THERE came to the stables of the subscriber, on Monday the 1st inst. a person calling himself
Mr. PEYTON,
and obtained a horse and gig on hire, as he said, to go to Ellicott's Mills, and return in the afternoon of the same day; and as he has not yet returned, there is strong reason to believe that his intention is to swindle me out of my property. He is about 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, apparently about 25 or 30 years of age, of genteel appearance, and well calculated to deceive.

The horse is a grey, about 15 hands high, 9 or 10 years old, has a switch tail, a speck on the right eye, and moves swiftly. The gig has a green body, carriage and wheels black, the lining of blue cloth, red stuff top, linings, plated double—outside joints.

I will give the above reward for the recovery of the horse and gig, and the detection of the scoundrel, or 20 dollars for the horse and gig only, and all reasonable expenses if delivered to me, No. 26, North Liberty street, Baltimore.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended
HAHN's ANTI BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of spirits	Melancholy
Loss of appetite	Gout in the stomach
Impurity of blood	Pains in the limbs
Hysterical affection	Relaxations, etc.
Inward weaknesses and debility

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

SENSIBILITY.

'Twas a new feeling—something more
Than we had dar'd to own before,
Which then we hid not;
We saw it in each other's eye,
And wish'd in every broken sigh
To speak, but did not!

She felt my lips impassion'd touch;
'Twas the first time I dar'd so much;
And yet, she chid not;
But whisper'd o'er my burning brow,
"Oh! do you doubt I love you now!"
Sweet soul! I did not!

Warmly I felt her bosom thrill,
I prest it closer, closer still,
Though gently bid not;
Till—oh! the world has seldom heard
Of lovers who so nearly err'd,
And yet who—did not!

From the Charleston Times.

There are few modern writers who have exhibited a more liberal and enlightened comprehension of mind and heart, than the celebrated and accomplished SCHLEGEL, to the accuracy of whose observation, and the classic purity of whose taste, every scholar has been so much indebted for hours of the most delightful feelings—As a DRAMATIC CRITIC, there are none who surpass him either in the knowledge of his subject, or the beauty of his moral perceptions.—The very air we breathe, as we walk with him hand in hand over this brilliant garden of the muses, diffuses a freshness of existence through the soul, and disposes all its faculties to the most beautiful harmony.—In an age of scepticism and prejudice—when it has become fashionable among men who would pass for wits to applaud to the heavens the productions of those under the auspices of whose names infidelity has supplanted the sublimity and truth of revelation—and the true dignity of genius has surrendered its pride of place to a degraded image, formed in its outward likeness it is true, but wanting in all its inward resemblances—he has divested himself of every thing that wears the livery of such a reputation, and gathered his honors from a more exalted sphere.—He seems to have approached the sanctuary where the ashes of genius repose, with a feeling sufficiently solemn to attest his veneration—yet too pure—too conscious of the power of truth to suffer itself to be deluded by the false glitter which the passion of the misguided, or the ignorance of the thoughtless had thrown around its urn. There was no man more alive to the eloquence of poetry—but he only worshipped her as a deity, when she walked in the light and loveliness of morals.

We have been led to these reflections from a perusal of the very original and highly judicious remarks which Professor Schlegel, in his great work, entitled DRAMATIC LITERATURE, has passed upon the genius and disposition of Voltaire, as a man and as a writer. The judgment of all mankind has awarded to Voltaire, the possession of the most rare and estimable talent—a mind gifted with extraordinary powers—a fancy rich and luxuriant—and a wit brilliant and sparkling as the fires of genius could make it. Yet, how lamentably were those highly gifted powers employed! Insatiate in his desire of distinction—ambitious to a crime—and fatal as the sirocco, he withered every thing blooming within the compass of his reach—and chose rather to reign amidst ruins, than not reign at all—

He made himself a fearful monument!
The wreck of old opinions—things which grew
Breathed from the birth of time—the veil be rent,
And what behind it lay all earth did view,
But gold with ill be overthrew,
Leaving but ruins.—BYRON.

Voltaire, (says Professor Schlegel) wished to shine in every possible department. A restless vanity would not allow him to be satisfied with the attempt to attain perfection in any one walk of literature—and from the variety of subjects on which his mind was employed, it was impossible for him to avoid shallowness and immaturity of ideas. He was by turns a philosopher, a rhetorician, a sophist and a buffoon. The impurity by which his views were in part characterised, were irreconcilable with a complete impartiality in his theatrical career. As he saw the public longing for information, which was rather tolerated by the favor of the great, than authorised and formally approved of by the public institutions, he did not fail to meet their wishes, and to deliver in beautiful verses on the stage, what no one durst yet preach from the pulpit or the professor's chair! He made use of poetry as a means to accomplish ends foreign to it—and this has often polluted the poetical purity of his compositions.

ALEXANDRIA:
FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 24, 1818.

IV. CANTO OF CHILDE HAROLD.

The character of lord Byron as a poet, is so firmly established, that to hope either to enhance or impair it, would only show the vanity or the malice of the critic who should attempt it. Permanent popularity is not easily acquired.—Mere sound and verbal finery, even if it catch popularity by surprise, cannot hold it long. Present fame is often but the transient sentence of caprice, of garrulity, of affectation, of favoritism, or of malignity—for strange as it may appear, there are those, and they are not a few, who will praise one, out of mere malice to another—but permanent popularity is the united opinion of too many to be created by light occasions, or influenced by unworthy motives, and is therefore seldom bestowed erroneously—never corruptly. Many, no doubt, will praise a work out of civility to its author, because praise is cheap; but few will purchase what they do not like to read. Besides, though many have sunk from a temporary extravagant applause into a total oblivion, a succession of editions, and an increasing appetite for years on the part of the world, for the works of any author, may be considered as a sentence which posterity is not likely to reverse.

The extracts from Childe Harold with which we have for some days furnished our readers, have been intended merely to gratify them with specimens of a noble poem, which to many of them would probably be otherwise unknown for ever, and at the same time to rouse those who possess taste and judgment, but are not in the way of seeing the book itself, to the attention it deserves. Doctor Goldsmith in his preface to the Abridgement of Hume's history of England, says that the execution of that task cost him much pain, as there was not a single line he threw out of the original, in which he did not cut away a beauty. So we may truly say of our extracts from this delightful poem: and that feeling has rendered our task longer and slower to ourselves, (we hope not wearisome to our readers) than we at first expected—and every step that we proceed increases our difficulty in selection, by presenting us in almost every stanza some beauty which we had not before, on two attentive perusals of the work, anticipated. Convinced, however, that by giving those extracts, we shall essentially contribute to the delight of our readers, we shall proceed to select, as well as our feelings, sometimes overwhelmed during the process with the pleasure the poem affords us, will permit.

"Yet Italy! through every other land
Thy wrongs shall ring, and shall from side to side;
Mother of arts! as once of arms; thy hand
Was then our guardian, and is still our guide;
Parent of our religion! whom the wide
Nations have knelt to for the keys of heaven!
Europe, repentant for her parricide,
Shall yet redeem thee, and all backward driven,
Roll the barbarian tide, and sue to be forgiven.

"And Arno wins us to the fair white walls,
Where the Etrurian Athens claims and keeps
A softer feeling for her fairy halls.
Girt by her theatre of hills, she reaps
Her corn and wine, and oil, and plenty leaps
To laughing life, with her redundant horn.
Along the banks where smiling Arno sweeps,
Was modern luxury of commerce born,
And buried learning rose, redeem'd to a new morn—

"There too, the goddess loves in stone,* and fills
The air around with beauty; we inhale
The ambrosial aspect, which beheld, instils
Part of its immortality: the veil
Of heaven is half undrawn; within the pale
We stand, and in that form and face behold
What mind can make, when nature's self would fail,
And to the fond idolaters of old
Envy the innate flash which such a soul could mould.

"We gaze and turn away, and know not where,
Dazzled and drunk with beauty, till the heart
Reels with its fulness; there—for ever there,
Chained to the chariot of triumphal art,
We stand as captives, and would not depart.
Away! there needs no words, nor terms precise,
The paltry jargon of the marble mart,
Where pedantry gulls folly—we have eyes:
Blood—pulse—and breast confirm the Dardan shepherd's prize.

"Apparel'dst thou not to Paris in this guise,
Or to more deeply bless'd Anchises? or
In all thy perfect goddess-ship, when lies
Before thee thy own vanquish'd lord of war!
And gazing in thy face as toward a star,
Laid on thy lap, his eyes to thee upturn,
Feeding on thy sweet cheek! while thy lips are
With lava kisses melting while they burn,
Shower'd on his eyelids, brow and mouth, as from an urn."

* The Venus de Medicis.

After some splendid compliments to Angelo, Galileo, Machiavel, Dante, Petrarch, and Boaccio, he turns to Rome, which he greets in the following animated strains:

"Oh Rome! my country! city of the soul!
The orphans of the heart must turn to thee,
Lone mother of dead empires! and control
In their dead breasts their petty misery.
What are woes and sufferance? Come and see
The cypress, hear the owl, and plod your way
O'er steps of broken stone and temples, ye!
Whose agonies are evils of a day—
A world is at our feet as fragile as our clay.

"The Nicobe of nations, there she stands,
Childless and crownless, in her voiceless woe;
An empty urn within her wither'd hands,
Whose holy dust was scattered long ago;
The Scipio's tomb contains no ashes now;
The very sepulchres lie tenantless
Of their heroic dwellers: dost thou flow
Old Tiber! through a marble wilderness?
Rise with thy yellow waves, and mantle her distress!

"The Goth, the christian, time, war, flood and fire,
Have dealt upon the seven-hill'd city's pride;
She saw her glories star by star expire,
And up the steep barbarian monarchs ride,
Where the car climb'd the capitol: far and wide,
Temple and tower went down, nor left a site;
Chaos of ruins! who shall trace the void,
O'er the dim fragments cast a lunar light,
And say, "here was or is," where all is doubly night.

"The double night of ages, and of her
Night's daughter, ignorance, hath wrapt and wrap
All round us; we but feel our way to err:
The ocean hath his chart, the stars their map,
And knowledge spreads them on her ample lap;
But Rome is as the desert, where we steer
Stumbling o'er recollections; now we clap
And cry, 'Eureka!' it is clear—
When but some false mirage of ruin rises near.

"Alas! the lofty city! and alas!
The trebly hundred triumphs! and the day
When Brutus made the dagger's edge surpass
The conqueror's sword in bearing fame away!
Alas, for Tully's voice, and Virgil's lay,
And Livy's pictured page! but these shall be
Her resurrection: all beside—decay:
Alas, for earth, for never shall we see
That brightness in her eye she bore when Rome was free."

It has of late been a matter of much dispute (says a correspondent) whether it was unlawful to plant Tobacco on the sabbath. I am of opinion it is as contrary to the laws of God as day is to night: but Virgil, the celebrated poet, is of another opinion:

"No laws, divine or human, can restrain
From necessary work the lab'ring swain:
Ev'n holy days and feasts permission yield
To plant tobacco, worm, or hoe the field."

I hope Virgil's opinion will decide all disputes, or at least put a stop to them—for they are becoming disagreeable to peaceable persons. St. Mary's co. July, 1818.

SOMETHING NEW.

A person in this city advertises that he has a patent right for the skill of training DOGS to the following purposes, viz: "For pumping water; irrigating meadows, gardens, &c.; grinding paint, corn, bark, and other articles; turning the grindstone, the lathe, carding and spinning machines, and washing machines; working churns; assisting rope-makers; threshing and cleaning grain; cutting straw, tobacco, shingles, dyewood; chopping meat, &c.—and for a great variety of other purposes, where the employment of canine agency will prove highly economical and profitable." The dogs are said to be delighted with the employment, and capable of working to more advantage than two men. [N. York Col.

MINISTER TO RUSSIA.

On Wednesday last his Excellency George W. Campbell, our Minister to St. Petersburgh, arrived in town from Tennessee, and was immediately waited on by several citizens of distinction. On Thursday he visited the Independence, 74, and the Guerriere, 44, in our harbour, accompanied by the Secretary of the Navy, Commodores Bainbridge and Hull, the Hon. Messrs. Otis, Mason, and Silsby, of Congress, and several officers of the general government. On his entering and leaving each ship, all the yards were manned, and salutes of 20 guns fired from each.

The Guerriere will probably sail this day or to-morrow, for Russia.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in the Alabama Territory to his brother in Baltimore, dated Fort Claiborne, June 7th, 1818.

The town of Pensacola (taken by gen. Jackson) is most delightfully situated, having the advantage of good water and an elevated scite. Its contiguity to the ocean gives it superior advantages over any other in the southern section.—The sea breezes render it agreeable in the summer season.

Live oak grows on the bay of Pensacola in great abundance; the harbor is good, and on entering it a vessel may carry twenty four feet at low water. Would not this be a most valuable place for a naval depot?

Should we retain possession of it, I have no hesitation in saying it would be found to combine more advantages than any we possess. [Baltimore paper.

MELANCHOLY SHIPWRECK.

The brig Mary, Captain Paul Howland, sailed from this port on the 6th May last, on a whaling voyage to the Coast of Patagonia, and on the night of the 28th, was stranded near Cape Blanco, Coast of Africa.

In the morning, captain Howland, and his crew succeeded in getting on shore, with a quantity of provisions and other necessaries, but were soon discovered by the Arabs, who came and loaded their camels with the articles which had been saved, while at the same time the women divested Captain Howland's men of almost every article of clothing they had on, and attempted to rob him also, but he resisted and escaped from them. The Arabs then departed with their plunder, but soon returned with several camels, apparently loaded with brush-wood, under which several men armed with muskets and spears, were concealed.

As soon as they arrived on the beach they discovered themselves, and attempted to take Captain Howland and his men prisoners, who immediately ran to their boats and pushed off, when the Arabs fired and wounded James Edwards of Rochester, who died three days after;—Job Miller, of Dartmouth, who was on the deck of the brig, was wounded in the thigh, and left there—Lemuel Gifford, of Fairhaven, being alone in a boat, was driven ashore by the surf, and was taken by the Arabs.

Captain Howland and his crew having a small quantity of provisions in their boats, continued their course for the Cape de Verd Islands, and took passage in the ship Shakespear, of London, captain Stephen Brigs, for Bonavista—for thence he took passage in the brig Gen. Gates, White, of and for Machias, and arrived at Tarpaulin Cove, 11th instant.

We have received from our attentive correspondent at Amsterdam, says the Boston Daily Advertiser, a regular file of Brussels papers to the 14th of May. They contain no news of importance, though filled with much amusing and interesting matter.

We have extracted for to day's paper some remarks upon an ingenious and important application of chemical knowledge to the arts—and shall continue to make further translations as we have room and opportunity.

The following account is translated from the Vrai Liberal of May 8. It is sufficiently evident upon a very slight observation, that in the common way in which wood is consumed upon our hearths, many of its component paris escape in the form of vapor and gases, and thus are wasted, which might doubtless be applied to useful purposes. We are not informed of the particular mode in which these products are preserved and separated from each other in the invention here referred to, but no ingenious Chemist can be much at a loss for means of doing it, to a considerable extent at least.

Application of Chemistry to the Arts.—The city of Brussels has, for a year, contained an establishment which ought to fix the attention of all who are interested in the progress of the useful arts, and one which shows how much the sciences are capable of assisting them. By means of a process, the first discovery of which was the result of the studies of the most able Chemists, Messrs. Baugnier, and Desprets, the principals of the establishments, have the secret of converting wood into charcoal, and at the same time, by a very simple operation, of extracting pitch, and pyro-lignic acid.—The heat for the purpose is produced by hydrogen gas, which is furnished by the operation, and they have learned by very ingenious means to manage and direct it at pleasure. The charcoal is of perfect purity. The pyro-lignic acid, independently of the uses to which it is applicable in the arts, gives when rectified, an excellent vinegar, which both for the table and domestic purposes, surpasses in quality the best wine vinegar, and which by its moderate price, will give a considerable saving to the customers. The pitch, cheaper also than that which is imported from abroad, can on other accounts be made to enter into competition with it. In fine, the hydrogen gas not only serves to heat the furnaces in which these different products are elaborated, but by its superabundance contributes to illuminate the work shops.

The pyro-lignic acid is particularly valuable to the dyers. Mixed with iron filings, it gives a black dye very much superior to that in common use; and with the addition of dyer's wood it produces shades as brilliant as they are durable, varying according to the nature and extent of the additions. Those hatters and manufacturers of printed calicoes who have tried it, have found that it communicates to the furs and clothes the property of resisting the action of the air for a long time. This property seems to be owing to the peculiar nature of the pyro-lignic acid, and to an oily substance which it contains, when it has not been rectified, to be converted into vinegar. We do not personally warrant the correctness of these last effects, but the artizans, who practice the different branches of dying, are so much interested in proving them, by new experiments, that we have no doubt of their eagerness to ascertain them with certainty.

Those ignorant pretenders, and discontented people, who are always dissatisfied with the age in which they live, ought now, at least, to render justice to the progress which modern chemistry has given to the useful arts. How is it that not one among them should suspect that any of these valuable products can be obtained from a billet of wood, if chemistry had not revealed the secret to them! It is not however to these refractory incurables, who cannot be subjected to the action of the crucible that we should recommend to visit the establishment of Messrs. Bougnier & Desprets. It is to those laborious men, those useful and brilliant men, who exert themselves continually for the happiness of their country, who give animation to its inhabitants, who occupy themselves without cessation in producing the means of sustaining the national industry under the discouragements which foreigners would impose upon it, who struggle against difficulties, of which they are not even admitted to complain, and who, notwithstanding the want of reciprocal advantages, which foreign industry obtains amongst us, seek to increase the general mass of riches by creating new objects of exportation. These alone can appreciate the benefits of the establishment which we recommend to their notice—and which the government has encouraged by a patent.

LIGHT IN THE SOUTH!

During the short but interesting conversations we have had with several gentlemen arrived in the Congress frigate, two facts have been mentioned, which afford us the highest gratification. 1. The people of Buenos Ayres, especially, are directing the most diligent attention towards the establishment of a general system of EDUCATION. 2. They have now in a train of translation, to be disseminated generally, a selection of the revolutionary and such other political writings of this country, as may have a tendency to infuse the spirit of the North Americans into the popular mind. This is a radical beginning; it speaks volumes, and is of itself sufficient to place the succesful result of their struggle beyond all rational doubt.

We also learn, that the people of that country look up to the North Americans with the liveliest admiration, and a most ardent solicitude: that our acknowledged influence is such, that we could mould their character to the utmost pitch of their susceptibility. What an irresistible call is this upon our energies and upon our magnanimity!

In our opinion, it is now next to certain, that the report of the commissioners must furnish the desiderata required by our people and government for the acknowledgment of the independence, at least of Buenos Ayres, Chili, and Venezuela. What an interesting season approaches for our representatives! What a distinguished and splendid æra of history is at hand! Next to the glory of the Congress of '76, in signing our own Declaration of Independence, will be that of the 15th Congress, in embracing a first born sister, and lighting her path to the happiness which we have attained!

THE BRITISH IN SOUTH AMERICA.

A very respectable reinforcement, it seems, of English troops, organized and commanded by British officers, with a park of artillery and a supply of small arms, and a sloop of war, commanded by a British naval officer, have arrived at Margaritta, to co-operate with the Patriots.

Whatever of the spirit of adventure may be ascribed by cold calculators to these auxiliaries, we are ready to accord much praise to our cousins of England, the descendants of our ancestors, for their laudable spirit in the cause of liberty. That such a spirit exists among that people, it would be preposterous to doubt, when it manifests itself in frequent instances, thro' all the rubbish, lumber and dust of a corrupt government. Voluntary, in a great measure, must be the service of these troops for the relations of England with the Allied powers of Europe, would not permit an actual detachment of such a force by regular authority. But there can be no doubt of the connivance of the British government at these movements.

A curious parallel strikes our view at this moment. There is an interesting similarity in the present disposition of the government and people of England towards the southern patriots, to that of the Court of Versailles and its ardent subjects towards this country during the revolution. In both cases, the choicest spirits of the time, prompted by noble principles and generous feelings, have broke the path as pioneers; and we believe that in the present case, as in the other, the government, actuated by an interest of a less liberal but equally potent kind, is not averse from the success of their enterprises.

We have at least as much reason to expect sympathy in the cause of freedom from the noble spirited sons of England, as we could have had from a French nobleman (the Marquis de la Fayette) and his friends; and we know that policy operates as powerfully upon the English as ever it did upon the French government. We wish success to the good work itself, whatever may be the motives of foreign auxiliaries. Let us not quarrel with the selfishness which tends to a good end, nor be too apprehensive about consequences. We are apprised, from the best authority, that the people of South America, are too well aware of the policy of the British government to be seduced by its influence—The American government stands decidedly the first in the estimation of the Patriots of South America. It will be the first to acknowledge their independence, and, unless we are much mistaken in our inferences from facts before us, the British government will immediately follow the example.

Piano-Fortes and Organs.

THE subscriber, who carries on the manufacture of these instruments in N. York, is now in Alexandria, where he will remain a short time, during which he will attend to repair, regulate the action and improve their tones and musical effects.—A specimen of his work and abilities may be examined in the store second door below the Mechanics' Bank, King street, where he offers for sale two of his Piano-Fortes at the New-York prices—one of them an elegant upright grand, of a full bodied mellow tone and brilliant touch—the other is of the horizontal sextagon form, highly finished, with extra additional keys. He warrants them perfectly sound, and of the first quality.—He will allow in exchange a fair price for old pianos or organs, being such as he approves.—He also has for sale a few fine toned old violins and elegant bows, and concert flutes.—He is perfectly acquainted with the harpsichord construction, and offers to put them in complete order.

Orders left at the store, or at Mr. Abercrombi's, cabinet-maker, or at Capt. Nelson's, King street, will be promptly attended to on his return to New-York.

He is a very submissive orderly fellow—His clothing that can be recollected consisted of a blue second cloth coat with yellow buttons, nearly new; Russia sheeting shirts and trowsers, and a variety of other clothing not recollected. I fully expect he must have from 150 to 200 dollars with him in money—and very little doubt but he had furnished himself with free papers. Whoever takes up the said fellow, secures him in jail, and retains all moneys and papers he may have on him, shall be entitled to the money found on him, and the above reward if taken out of the District; or twenty dollars if taken within the District of Columbia. Dr. Thomson's System of Chemistry.

IN FOUR VOLUMES OCTAVO.

THE preceding edition of Dr. Thomson's Chemistry, had acquired so much reputation both in England and upon the continent of Europe, that a new edition, comprising the new facts with which the science had been enriched, and the new views of the subject which extended knowledge had suggested as indispensable, was eagerly looked for by the scientific world. A new edition has accordingly appeared, wherein the former edition of five volumes has been condensed into four.

All the new discoveries, and all the new theories of Chemical Phænomena, have been considered and embraced in the present improved edition: so that it is indispensable to the chemical student, as presenting the only condensed view of the changes and alterations in chemical doctrine, which the discoveries of the last ten years have suggested. No apology therefore can be necessary for reprinting such a book in this country; for the press does not furnish a substitute for it. But, there is so much theoretical suggestion—so much abstruse calculation—so much fact of dubious authority—and so much dubious validity—that notes and illustrations are absolutely necessary, not merely to render the book more useful, but more intelligible.

Under these impressions, I thought fit to write notes in illustration (and sometimes in contradiction) of the work itself, rather than to make any abridgement of it. Those who wish to know the modern views of chemical science, must peruse it; and to very many who will be anxious to study it, elucidation will be necessary. I have endeavoured to supply these, to the best of my ability; regardless whether my own opinions are in dissonance or coincidence with those of my author; leaving to the reader to decide between us.

The work will be published, with notes and illustrations, in four volumes 8vo.

THOMAS COOPER, M. D.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be printed on a superfine paper, with a new small pica letter; and will be published early in the ensuing summer.

II. It will be illustrated with a number of cuts, of which several have been necessarily added to the London edition.

III. It will be delivered to subscribers at $12—to non-subscribers at $14, in boards. The London edition sells for $18.

James Kennedy & Son,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from

LEE's MEDICINE STORE,

No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and consfitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infalliblo preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.
